Open Access and the next REF

DEPOSIT

In order to be eligible for the next REF, the final peer-reviewed version of journal articles and conference papers must be deposited in an Open Access repository within three months of acceptance for publication. Oxford's message to researchers: you deposit; we'll take care of the rest. Deposit all your journal articles and conference papers in ORA via Symplectic Elements, starting now. There's information and help on the Open Access Oxford website (http://openaccess.ox.ac.uk). The Bodleian team will check copyright and licensing conditions, create an ORA record and make the full-text available if and when it complies with the requirements of your publisher. If you have any questions, please contact openaccess@bodleian.ox.ac.uk.

Welcome to Lucinda Lyon and NOC Library update

BHCL are pleased to welcome Lucinda Lyon as Library Supervisor at the NOC Library. We are continuing to improve our services and facilities at the NOC, including installing Bodleian Library Reader Network PCs this month, with further developments such as access to the Bodleian Reader Wi-Fi network and Medical Student PCs to follow shortly.
Lucinda Lyon

Welcome to new Research Students in the Medical Sciences Division

We're here to support you in a number of ways:

- Online Journals, Books and Databases - Access thousands of resources from anywhere using your Oxford Single Sign-On.
- Group and One-to-One Training – Outreach and Subject Librarians can provide training or advice in your department or our libraries.
- Help with Searching and Keeping Up-to-Date - Outreach or Subject Librarians can help you with literature searches for systematic reviews and research project bids.
- Modern Spaces - We have a wide range of IT facilities and software packages, write-up and quiet study space, WiFi and well-equipped group study and training rooms.
- Support for Writing Articles and Theses - We can help you find journals to publish in, run your literature search and manage your references and advise on impact factors, altmetrics and compliance with funding bodies' Open Access policies.

Please contact us for help and advice at hcl-enquiries@bodleian.ox.ac.uk. There is a LibGuide on MSD Research Resources at http://ox.libguides.com/medsci.

ORCID at Oxford

An ORCID (http://orcid.org/) is a unique researcher identifier, used worldwide, that you keep throughout your life and retain even if you move institution. You can create new or connect existing ORCIDs with the university this way. More information can be found at http://ox.libguides.com/orcid. ORCID is increasingly becoming the method of choice by funders and publishers globally to unambiguously link people to their publications and grants. From August 2015 the Wellcome Trust requires ORCIDs in grant applications.

Your ORCID record is owned and managed solely by you, not the University.

- What does an ORCID at Oxford look like?

Anyone can register direct on the ORCID site and claim to be at Oxford. But with an Oxford one your affiliation is verified. Your Employment information could show as 'Source: ORCID Integration at the University of Oxford' - here's Professor Alison Banham's ID http://orcid.org/0000-0002-3197-273X.

- What else does ORCID at Oxford do?

It will save you time and effort as it increasingly provides automated linkages between publisher and funder and University systems.

- How do I get an ORCID ID?

Use ORCID at Oxford (https://register.it.ox.ac.uk/self/orcid) to register for an 'official' Oxford-linked ORCID iD. This 'linking' service is possible because Oxford is a member of ORCID.
