Radcliffe Science Library Redevelopment

A plan has been put forward to refurbish the Radcliffe Science Library (RSL), making a number of alterations and improvements to the space to meet the changing needs of the science divisions, the wider University and community. The changing needs of students and researchers in the sciences challenge the suitability of the current physical design and the removal of Special Collections materials to the Weston Library provides an opportunity for the radical revision of services and spaces.

Open Access Oxford Week, 11-15 June 2018

We are pleased to announce our programme and open the booking for Open Access Oxford Week, which will round off the summer term with daily events across the university. Join us to discuss developments in research dissemination and scholarly communication, policy and practice, all in the context of open access. With a mix of local and visiting speakers, we look forward to welcoming representatives from Research England, the National Institute for Health Research, JISC, Altmetric and the creators of 'author copyright' game The Publishing Trap.

Please visit the Open Access Oxford Week programme page

<http://openaccess.ox.ac.uk/2018/04/13/open-access-oxford-week-11-15-june-2018/> for latest details and booking.

All events are free and open to all University staff and students, especially academics and researchers, research students, research support staff and librarians.

BETA release of new interface for SOLO

An updated version of the SOLO interface was launched on 24 April 2018.

Until the end of Trinity Term 2018 the updated version will run alongside existing version and <http://solo.bodleian.ox.ac.uk> will point to existing version.

During the summer vacation, <http://solo.bodleian.ox.ac.uk> will point to the updated version but the existing version will still be available. At the end of the summer vacation the existing version will be phased out.

A LibGuide to assist readers in using the new version is now online at <https://libguides.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/solobeta>.

Readers are welcome to give feedback at <https://www.surveymonkey.co.uk/r/JWXRC2H>.

RSL bee box

We now have a bee nesting box installed at the RSL. This is a project being run by the Department of Plant Sciences and Wytham Woods (amongst others) called 'Plan Bee' - for details, please see <https://oxfordplanbee.web.ox.ac.uk/home>. The boxes will provide nesting habitats for solitary bees around Oxford. These bees are important pollinators.
