Google for academic research
Part 8: Using Google with your own research question
Using Google for your research

Try out some of the techniques mentioned with your own research questions – note which improve your results, and which don’t. Try combining some of the option to see which work well together to bring you relevant results.

Accompanying workbook will help you construct a search for your own research topic.