Aims

- Understand how email alerts can help you
- How to utilise the following key platforms:
 - SOLO
 - Bibliographic databases
 - Newspapers
 - Journal alerts
 - JiscMail
- Managing alerts

How do email alerts work?

Removes distracting and superfluous information.

Email alerts: advantages

A lot of services offer email alerts

The email joins all your other emails

You can keep your work all in one place

Email alerts: disadvantages

You will need to go back to the original source and remove yourself from email alerts

If you like to keep your work separate, having your emails all together may not suit you

Web of Science: sign in

2. You will need to sign in to Web of Science with your personal Web of Science username and password. If you have not got one, click Register to set one up.

The screenshot shows the Web of Science homepage. At the top left is the 'Web of Science™' logo. To its right is a 'Search' tab. In the top right corner, there is a navigation bar containing a 'Sign In' button with a dropdown arrow and a 'Register' button. These two buttons are enclosed in an orange rectangular box. Below the navigation bar, the main content area is divided into two tabs: 'DOCUMENTS' and 'RESEARCHERS'. The 'DOCUMENTS' tab is active. Under this tab, there is a search bar with the text 'Search in: Web of Science Core Collection' and a dropdown for 'Editions: All'. Below the search bar, there are three sub-tabs: 'DOCUMENTS', 'CITED REFERENCES', and 'STRUCTURE'. The 'DOCUMENTS' sub-tab is active. Below the sub-tabs, there is a search input field with a dropdown menu set to 'All Fields' and a text input field containing the example text 'Example: liver disease india singh'. Below the input fields, there are three buttons: '+ Add row', '+ Add date range', and 'Advanced search'. To the right of these buttons are two more buttons: 'x Clear' and a purple 'Search' button. At the bottom of the page, there is a promotional banner with a bar chart icon, the text 'Jump back into your research - try out our personalized homepage dashboard.', a link 'Don't have an account? Register for a new account', and a 'Sign in to access' button.

4. Click 'create alert'

The screenshot displays the Web of Science interface for a search result. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the text '6 Documents' and 'You may also like...'. To the right of this bar are three buttons: 'Analyze Results', 'Citation Report', and 'Create Alert'. The 'Create Alert' button is highlighted with a yellow rectangular border. Below the navigation bar, the left sidebar contains a 'Refine results' section with an 'Export Refine' button and a search box labeled 'Search within results...'. Underneath is a 'Quick Filters' section with two options: 'Open Access' (4 results) and 'Enriched Cited References' (2 results). The main content area shows a list of results. The first result is marked with a checkbox and the number '1'. It has a lock icon and the title "'A Southern man can have a harem of up to twenty Danish women': Sexotic politics and immigration in Denmark, 1965-1979". The author 'Shield, ADJ' is listed below the title. To the right of the author, the number '24' is displayed with the word 'References' underneath it. At the top of the results list, there are buttons for 'Add To Marked List' and 'Export', along with a 'Relevance' dropdown menu and a pagination indicator showing '1 of 1'.

CEBD-EVIDENCE-UPDATES@JISCMAIL.AC.UK

This screen allows you to subscribe or unsubscribe to the CEBD-EVIDENCE-UPDATES list. To confirm your identity and prevent third parties from subscribing you to a list against your message with a confirmation code will be sent to the address you specify. Simply wait for this message to arrive, then follow the instructions to confirm the operation.

Alternatively, you can update your subscription interactively by logging in with your LISTSERV password.

The following information is needed for us to manage your subscription to the JiscMail service. We'll use it, as described in our standard privacy notice at <https://www.jisc.ac.uk/websi> well as to identify problems or ways to make the service better. We'll keep the information until we are told that you no longer wish to subscribe.
