Enter keywords in the search bar and hit the search icon

The search results display a single entry for 'The Routledge handbook on crime and international migration'. The entry is highlighted with a yellow box. It includes a document icon, the title 'The Routledge handbook on crime and international migration', the author 'Pickering, Sharon, 1972-; Ham, Julie.', and an Altmetric score of 7. Below the entry, it states '3 versions of this record exist. See all versions >'. The entry is also marked with a '2' in a small box.

Purpose of this guide for International Development

This guide is intended for students and researchers at the University of Oxford seeking support in International Development, although students and researchers from any field may find it useful.

Use this guide to find out about printed and online resources, including ebooks, ejournals, bibliographic databases, and reports for International Development.

Finding books for international development

Oxford has a wide range of ebooks and printed books for international development, including the main collection in the Social Science Library. For more detailed info about our book collections visit our books page of this guide.

- SOLO
Search SOLO, the University's resource discovery tool, for print and ebooks at Oxford. You can search by author, title or subject and limit to a specific library or online resources.
- SOLO user guide
If you need help with SOLO, take a look at this guide for tips on searching, managing results and using your SOLO account.

Key journals & working papers

The Journals & working papers page of this guide presents subscription collections and portals, which offer access to full-text periodicals and industry reports; it also provides information on working and research papers, a valuable source of speeding up dissemination and providing access to early stage research in refugee and forced migration studies.

Below are a few of the top journals for international development but you can find a longer list on the Journals & working papers page of this guide.

Research Data Oxford (4)

The screenshot shows the Research Data Oxford website. The header features the University of Oxford logo and the Research Data Oxford logo with the tagline "Make your data count". A search bar is located in the top right. A navigation menu includes links for "Managing research data", "Policy and funder requirements", "Tools, services, and training", "Events", "FAQs", "A-Z index", "Glossary", and "Contact us". On the left, a sidebar lists topics: "About data management", "Data management plans", "Ethical and legal issues", "Data handling and acquisition", "Keeping working data safe", "Post-project data preservation", and "Sharing data". The main content area is titled "Welcome to the Research Data Oxford website" and contains four large tiles: "New to all this? Start here" (with a question mark icon), "University of Oxford policy" (with a quill icon), "Depositing your data in an archive" (with an icon showing data flow to an archive), and "Contact us" (with an envelope icon). Below these tiles, a welcome message states: "Welcome to the Research Data Oxford website: the University of Oxford's central source of information and guidance relating to research data management. This site is for Oxford researchers at all levels (including students doing research projects) who are dealing with research data, and for all those involved in supporting researchers. We plan to continue developing this site over the next few months, so if there are additional topics you would like to see covered, or if you have any other feedback, please get in touch."

iSkills workshops

The Bodleian iSkills workshops develop your skills in information discovery and scholarly communications, covering a variety of resources across a wide range of disciplines. They are primarily aimed at University of Oxford students and staff and, for particular workshops, Oxford University Hospitals (OUH) staff.

Our workshops cover:

- Information discovery and searching for scholarly materials
- Endnote, RefWorks, Zotero and Mendeley for managing references and formatting footnotes and bibliographies
- Keeping up to date with new research
- Measuring research impact
- Understanding copyright and looking after your intellectual property
- Open Access publishing and complying with funder mandates for open access
- Managing your research data
